"SOLITUDE IS A PLACE WHERE SILENCE ALLOWS US TO LISTEN" -GREG ROBINSON

Do you know that there is a therapeutic experience in just being with yourself?

You must have seen a random person in a cafe all by themselves either reading a book, working on their laptop or simply just having a cup of coffee or maybe on a trek or a camp with your friends, where you notice someone who is all by themselves throughout the trip enjoying their own company.

There is lot of literature which talks about where Solitude, a state of being alone has helped individuals to get clarity and perception on any thought or situation is bothering them

Many a times these individuals who are with themselves, enjoying their solitude and their company are incorrectly termed as lonely and depressed. Not everyone would be experiencing depression or lonely. Quoted by Pablo Picasso, "Without great solitude, no serious work is possible", which in my thought is true.

One of my favourite pieces of literature about solitude by Anshi Ranka is as follows,

"I think the meaning of being alone is completely inaccurate in most people's mind. Being alone is not when you are absolutely devoid of relationships and friends. It is not being left alone. It is simply a matter of choice. It is when you have learnt to accomplish the most difficult and distressful thing in the whole entity."

I hope you see the way I see it now.

Dear readers, a certain level of silence and quietness has real significance in life. This silence at times gives answers to the chaos within you. Solitude is also mentioned as soul's holiday, so a certain break from a monotonous routine will be a great help to function better than before.

Hello, I'm a '14 – yearold YOUTUBER'!

Yeah you heard it right A 14 YEAR OLD YOUTUBER!

My YouTube channel's name is HilariousPB, which I started a year ago in 2020 during lockdown and saw an insane growth! Let me tell you how it all started...

Lockdown had just begun and everyone was getting bored at their houses. During that time the 'Muskurayega India' trend was going on to motivate people that we will be soon out of this COVID & Lockdown situation. First time it was released by Bollywood Actors & celebrities. But then common people started this trend by inserting their photos, holding papers in their hands on which slogans like "Stay Home, Stay Safe", "Maintain Social Distancing", etc. were written with Muskurayega India as just background music. But then I thought of doing something different from others, I decided to create an imitation of the original version with actions and videos with my friends. Everyone frustrated, immediately accepted to take part in this video. People loved this video and got many good comments and 100+ subscribers in just 15 hours. That time was the first when I started basic editing and direction given to by team and sincethat time I edit all my videos.

Receiving lots of love from audience, later we decided to create different videos too. We created many funny videos after that. Later I began writing script, needless to say post that all my videos had a script penned by me. Soon we had a team working for it, named as Team PB.

The humongous support of our viewers in just one year, wherein we got more than 500+ subscribers & 30,000+ viewers! On our channel we make funny, emotional, horror, vlogs & festive videos as a team & dance covers as well as roasting videos as my own interests. In nut shell we create content that will surely entertain an individual.

Pandemic made me and my team explored worlds around; the best part everything was done from the respective homes of team members following the COVID guidelines.

"It takes courage to grow up and become who you really are."- E.E Cummings.

Living a teen age is another survival man has to sustain, through this write-up I am sharing a few learning of my teenage life. Now, these are not going to be any great epiphanies that no one in the world has come across. These are just some observations and lessons that a simple 19-year-old girl has come across. They have helped me survive my teenage years. I hope they help you too.

Lessons from a 19-year-old girl:

# 1 Everyone fears being judged and laughed at. But honestly, no one cares.

Have you found yourself restraining yourself from singing loudly in a party (fearing that your voice may crack up), not cracking a joke (fearing that the others might find it super-lame), avoided giving speeches in the assembly (fearing you might fumble and go blank) and avoided the hurdles race (for fear of a hilarious faceplant). We think so much about what people might think. But let me break it up to you that you are not the centre of the universe, and the whole world is not thinking about YOU. In fact, 'people' are no different from us. Every person on this planet fears being judged. They are also so busy thinking, "what if the world laughs at me " that they forget how you embarrassed yourself by dancing like a bear, screwing up that speech, or how the fussy you fell over your bench in that sophisticated event. Begin living your life without this fear, and you will see things changing around you. And mind you, when I say, do not care about people's judgements of you, I am not saying that you should be insensitive to their feelings. Remember that they might have the same fears or problems that you have.

# 2 Pop the bubbles you live in and explore!

Right now, you live in a peaceful city like Nashik. You are happy in the world you have created for yourself in this school- your family, friends, teachers, neighbors, school syllabus, and a few hobbies. It is good that you enjoy these things. But now I want you people to break this bubble and take time to observe and be aware of the happenings around. Stay updated on the news (not just Bollywood gossip, politics and tragedies in the newspaper, but also scientific breakthroughs, discoveries in archaeology, etc.). Meet new kinds of people with different backgrounds. Try to understand them, their thoughts, and their beliefs. Explore the places around the city. Participate in new activities as much as possible (even if you suck at them). Use the wonderful gift our generation has- the Internet- for this. There are so many online platforms you can use to find/pursue your passion. Explore your undiscovered whorls. You are teenagers with raging hormones and energy. Use it to find your fullest potential. Find your connection with the world.

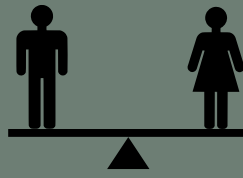

As I told you before, no great secrets were being revealed here; just a few observations and lessons I have had through my experiences. I wish I knew these things when I was your age. Now, you are responsible for being wiser than me, equipped with such knowledge. Conquer your lives and this world. If you find any bits of advice helpful, then this article has served its purpose, and I am satisfied.

YOU
KNOW

-SONALI PATIL

I came across a YouTube short wherein an antenatal lady was taking a breather and her husband was shown doing all the work. On checking comments to see how people reacted to it. Majority of the women commented that the YouTube short was not every woman's experience. Many women wrote how their family members not only gave them enough time to rest but also made them work. Horrifying, isn't it?

This kind of behaviour isn't only tolerated in the poor, uneducated households but a lot of educated and well-off women deal with it. They've been taught to act that way. The environment they grew-up in, showcased that men aren't just made for 'that kind of work'. My intention wasn't to target all the men but just the ones who have completely normalised these things. You have to support her. This is your house as much as her. She's been doing her job+ looking after the kids handling the family and whatnot. I'm not saying that you haven't been supporting to the family, it's just the kind of work she's been doing isn't easy. To all the men who just watch their mom/daughter/wife/sister mop the floor and sit on the couch and act like it is completely normal to just let them be, let me tell you one thing loud and clear. YOU WILL NOT BE LESS OF A MAN BY HELPING A WOMAN. They may not tell you this but they'll love if the weight they've been carrying for years gets shared.

This is whatever the upcoming generation have been learning. They notice when mom is doing the dishes alone and dad's watching cricket. This is what has been going on for generations. Decades after decades patriarchy has been paving its way into innocent boys who one day grow up to be men who doesn't care about taking women's opinions into consideration. He does what he feels is right even if it is wrong. This was completely normal to his aunt, mom and grandmother so it is obvious that he expects the same from his wife, daughter and sister.

Let's talk about the way women are portrayed in the soap eras. They hate on each other, back- stab each other for no reason and bitch about each other. After all this, Ekta Kapoor is called a feminist for working in the industry. Everyone indirectly assumes that this is how women are. There are so many things happening around, that aren't just fair towards women but they tolerate and tolerate and tolerate until they forget all about their self-respect and the manacles of misogyny grips them hard.

It pains my heart to even think about their sufferings, but I really hope this enlightens you and provides some clarity about everything in general.

-SAMRUDDHI KAPADNIS

MY Art

-ASAWARI DHAMALE

Drawing and painting is not just a hobby, it is a source of happiness for me! It allows me to paint down my imaginations and thoughts besides it make things clear for me. Just like the colours it paints my day colourful not only during the happy times but also whenever I am sad or disappointed I get indulge into painting and it really helps me some or the other way. In context of academics, it has been helping me to be more focused and dedicated doing things patiently and neatly. In my perspective one can let the art speak and express what otherwise one can't; since there is no limitation to one's imagination and talent.
